TP HEY are in the service of the Kansas their own city they selected the Sampson. City Street Department. Each one does the work formerly done by from seven to nine horse drawn wagons.

When the wagons were used they cost $960 a month to maintain and operate. To do the same work the Sampson costs $125 a month—a saving of $835 on each one, or $5010 each month for six Sampsons.

Thus the trucks pay for themselves in six months' time.

These figures are official.

Kansas City bought its trucks judicious= ly-they bought Sampsons in preference to seventeen other makes. The city officials are satisfied.

Hundreds of other Sampson users are thoroughly pleased with the work of their trucks. Right in Detroit, where Sampsons are built, they are held in highest esteem. The Detroit Fire Department, the Water Department, the Health Department, all selected Sampsons because they are built of a small lever. right and are always reliable.

The Peerless Motor Truck at the Show

Engineers and others interested in the details of design and construction are invited to inspect the Peerless Truck chassis at the show.

With every unit designed exclusively for trucking requirements, it reflects the spirit of thoroughness for which The Peerless Motor Car Company is noted. .

We shall be pleased to talk or correspond with manufacturers and merchants concerning their trucking problems. The Peerless selling plan is based entirely upon the idea of mutual profit. Hence it is our firm determination never to recommend the purchase of a truck until we are fully assured that the user's field is suitable for the profitable operation of motor trucks.
